DESCRIPTION

Untitled

Wooden sculpture carved with a gouge by Yasuo Fuke, circa 1960.

This remarkable piece exemplifies the refined craftsmanship and artistic vision of Japanese designer Yasuo Fuke. Meticulously shaped entirely with a gouge, it features flowing organic lines and a richly textured surface, reflecting an intimate connection with the material. The balanced composition skillfully interacts with light, creating a dynamic interplay of shadows and depth that captivates the viewer.

A visionary of the 1960s, Yasuo Fuke seamlessly merged traditional Japanese craftsmanship with a minimalist, modern sensibility. His works, celebrated for their tactile vibrancy and organic elegance, explore a poetic dialogue between materiality, light, and emotion.

Signed with an incised mark on the back of the piece.

Circa 1960.
