DESCRIPTION

Pair of solid wood armchairs designed by Henry Jacques Le Môme for a chalet in Megève around 1950. Their openwork frame, flat armrests and inclined legs reflect the functional yet refined character of alpine modernism developed by the architect.

The seat cushions are upholstered in red Othello velvet by Nobilis, adding a warm and elegant contrast to the natural wood. These armchairs embody Le Môme's vision of uniting craftsmanship and architectural simplicity within the postwar mountain aesthetic.

Seat height : 19.3 inches

Provenance: Le Grand Soleil building, built in 1939 in Megève.
