DESCRIPTION

Round dining table designed by Rainer Daumiller in the late 1970s and manufactured by Hirtshals Savværk A/S in Denmark.

Entirely crafted in solid pine, it features a thick circular top with generously softened edges. The laminated outer rim emphasizes the curve of the top and highlights the richness of the wood grain. Four solid cylindrical legs are directly integrated into the apron, creating a clear and honest construction. The table can accommodate a central extension while preserving the original balance of the design.

The table includes two 60 cm extensions, allowing it to reach a total width of 250 cm.
