DESCRIPTION

Fossil stone coffee table produced by Collection Fossile in Switzerland circa 1980.

The rectangular top with chamfered corners features a richly veined surface with visible marine fossils, including shells and cephalopod fragments dating from approximately 340 to 480 million years ago. The polished stone highlights the organic and mineral structure of these natural inclusions, creating a unique pattern.

The piece stands on four chrome metal legs positioned at each corner.

Switzerland, circa 1980.
